Named a new national committeeman for Missouri.

Heard the nominating speeches for Allison, Reed, Morton Quay, McKinley. The demonstration at the mention of McKinley's name was an enthusiastic one.

Heard Depew's statement that Morton would not accept vice presidency unless it was unanimous.

Bulletins of the day's progress are as follows:

9:50 a. m.—The weather is clear and warm. Strong efforts will be made to close up the convention tonight. The impression generally prevails that McKinley and Morton will be the nominees.

10:00 a. m.—A heated time is expected over the financial plank in the platform. A minority report favoring silver will be presented, backed by members of committee, and they will have two hours to present their case. It is fully asserted that in case of failure, delegates from the several silver states will withdraw from the convention. In the platform committee, Teller's amendment was supported by California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, North Carolina, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, North Carolina, Utah, Wyoming, Arizona and New Mexico, representing 96 votes in all. Forty-one members of committees voted for maintaining the present standard.

10:30 a. m.—Convention called to order.

10:50 a. m.—Foraker presents the platform. It declares that the existing gold standard should be maintained; opposes free coinage of silver; pledges protection of American industries; favors reciprocity and just retaliation; endorses Harrison's administration; denounces democratic rule; favors protecting American sugar; endorses the Monroe Doctrine; extension of civil service; opposes use of money for sectarian purposes; favors liberal pensions; advocates government construction of the Nicaragua canal; favors restriction of immigration; and favors good office and active interposition for restoration of peace in Cuba. The clause in the platform favoring sound money was loudly applauded.

The platform also denounces action of present government in arbitrarily reducing pensions and list of pensioners. The platform restricts immigration to those who can read and write.

11:05—The Illinois delegation has voted to support Hobart of New Jersey for vice president.

11:06—Foraker moves adoption of platform.

11:07—Teller rises to object amid great cheering and confusion. He moves a substitute for the financial plank favoring use of gold and silver as equal standard and free unrestricted coinage of silver at ratio of 16 to 1.

11:14—Teller takes platform to support his motion, is listened to closely. He claims that the prosperity of the country depends upon silver. He is loudly applauded. He says that the majority financial plank would lower the prices of farm products and that protective tariff cannot be maintained on a gold standard. He says he believes a large majority of people in this country favor silver.

11:40—Teller says he cannot support a gold platform, and will be forced out of the party if gold prevails. He says he may never address a national republican convention again.

11:47—Teller has finished, and Foraker takes the platform. He moves that the motion to substitute be laid on the table.

11:48—The roll of states has been ordered on Foraker's motion.

11:52—California votes against the motion.

12:20 p. m.—Foraker's motion to lay Teller's substitute financial plank on the table, was carried by a vote of 818 1/2 for it and 165 1/2 against it.

12:47—Motion to vote a financial plank separately was carried.

1:05—Platform adopted, financial plank, and all.

1:06—Cannon says minority should not yield.

1:10—Cannon of Utah takes the platform for a personal statement regarding the platform adopted. He says the action is outrageous and relentless on the part of the majority in favor of gold.

1:20—Much confusion and hissing.

1:31—Chairman Thurston says the republican party does not fear any declaration. Great cheering with nearly all the delegates and visitors on their feet.

1:36—Delegations of several of the states are marching out of the convention amid great excitement.

1:37—The audience singing "The Red White and Blue."

1:30—About thirty or forty delegates from the silver states have gone out. Part of the Utah delegation has gone, but the alternates take their places.

1:36—The chairman announces facetiously, that "enough delegates seem to be left to do business."

1:37—One delegate from Montana, stays in the convention, and is making a statement. He says he reserves the right to present the matter to his state before acting.

2:05—John B. Baldwin takes the platform to present the name of Allison, amid great cheering. His presentation of Allison was well received.

2:15—New York called. No one responded.

2:16—Maine called amid great cheering, and Senator Lodge has taken the platform to present the name of Thomas B. Reed, and his presentation of Reed's qualifications for the presidency elicits frequent cheers.

2:20—Still great cheering for Reed.

2:30—Littlefield, of Maine is seconding Reed's nomination.

2:45—Depew takes platform to present Morton, of New York, amid great cheering. His speech elicited great applause and he referred to the withdrawing silver delegates as "Erring Sisters," [laughter.] He says: Morton could not accept the vice-presidency, unless it came unanimously.

3:10—Ohio is called, and general cheering followed. All the delegates and the audience are on their feet throughout the building. It is an immense demonstration which continues some time.

3:12—Foraker takes the platform to present the name of William McKinley of Ohio.

3:21—Plumes being waved, horns blowing and cheering elsewhere. Great majority of delegates on their feet cheering, waving handkerchiefs, hats and plumes. The sun which has been under cloud, just burst out and flooded the convention hall with its fulgury. Audience singing "Marching Through Georgia." There is hardly possibility for doubt now that McKinley, be nominated on first ballot. Audience singing "Battle Cry of Freedom."

3:32—Cheering renewed and audience broke into singing "America."

3:36—Audience singing "Star Spangled Banner." Noises completely drown the brass band and orchestra.

3:37—Under vigorous pounding by chairman, audience beginning to quiet down.

THE WORK DONE YESTERDAY.

Report of Committee on Credentials Was Adopted—Thurston's Speech.

St. Louis, Mo., June 17.—Delegates were slow to arrive at the national republican convention hall Wednesday and the hour for coming to order (10 o'clock) found not more than 100 delegates present. Temporary Chairman Fairbanks entered the hall at 9:43 and took his place on the speaker's stand. The first arrivals meantime began to straggle into their seats at 9:45. The convention was called to order at 10:40 o'clock.

The convention was in comparative order upon the introduction of Dr. Wilbur G. Williams, pastor of the Union Methodist Episcopal Church of St. Louis, who made the prayer. As he lifted his head at the conclusion of the prayer the crowd sank back in their seats, and the convention was again under way.

Mr. Lodge rose to ask for the committee on resolutions the privilege of sitting during the progress of the convention, reporting that the subcommittee had completed the platform, and that it was now being considered by the full committee. He asked leave to report in the afternoon.

Senator Sewell of New Jersey jumped to his feet and moved that the report of the committee on permanent organization be received out of order. The motion was put, and Chairman Fairbanks declared it carried.

When the reading clerk, who intoned the committee's report to the house, announced the name of John M. Thurston of Nebraska to be permanent chairman there was an eruption of flags and cheers from the delegates and another demonstration greeted the name of U. S. Grant of California.

Senator Sewell of New Jersey and Congressman Senor Paine of New York were designated to escort the permanent chairman to the platform. Thurston faced the arena with his hands clasped behind him and began to speak. He said:

Gentlemen of the Convention:—The happy memory of your kindness and confidence will abide in my grateful heart forever. Eight years ago I had the distinguished honor to preside over the convention which nominated the last republican President of the United States. To-day I have the further distinguished honor to preside over the convention which is to nominate the next President of the United States. This generation has had its object lesson and the doom of the democratic party is already pronounced. The American people will return the republican party to power because they know that its administration will mean:

The supremacy of the Constitution of the United States.

The maintenance of law and order.

The protection of every American citizen in his right to live, to labor and to vote.

A vigorous foreign policy.

The enforcement of the Monroe doctrine.

The restoration of our merchant marine.

Safety under the stars and stripes on every sea, in every port.

A revenue for all governmental expenditures and the gradual extinguishment of the national debt.

A currency "as sound as the government and as untarnished as its honor," whose dollars, whether gold, silver or paper, shall have equal purchasing and debt-paying power with the best dollars of the civilized world.

A protective tariff which protects, coupled with reciprocity which reciprocates, thereby securing the best market for American products and opening American factories to the free coinage of American muscle.

A pension policy just and generous to our living heroes and to the widows and orphans of their dead comrades.

The governmental supervision and control of transportation lines and rates.

The protection of the people from all unlawful combinations and unjust exactions of aggregated capital and corporate power.

An American welcome to every god-fearing, liberty-loving, constitution-respecting, law-abiding, labor-seeking, decent man.

The exclusion of all whose birth, whose blood, whose condition, whose practices would menace the permanency of free institutions, endanger the safety of American society or lessen the opportunities of American labor.

The abolition of sectionalism—every star in the American flag shining for the honor and welfare and happiness of every commonwealth and of all the people.

A deathless loyalty to all that is true and American and a patriotism eternal as the stars.

The punctuation of almost every sentence of the address was a period of yells, rounded off with a fringe of applause and stamping. The other permanent officers elected are:

Secretary—Colonel Charles W. Johnson of Minnesota.

Assistant secretaries—W. E. Riley of Kentucky, H. H. Smith of Michigan, A. E. Humphrey of New York and A. W. Manlor of Maryland.

Official stenographer—Francis E. Burke of Pittsburgh.

Sergeant-at-arms—Timothy E. Byrnes of Minnesota.

Assistants to the sergeant-at-arms—W. P. Huxford of Washington, Charles E. Stone of Illinois and G. D. Smith of Oklahoma.

Reading clerks—J. H. Stone of Michigan, F. H. Wilson of Missouri, John R. Maller of Ohio, J. S. Hatch of Indiana and J. R. Bean of New Jersey.

Also one vice president from each State.

As the demonstration ceased by the direction of Permanent Chairman Thurston, a letter was read from J. Henry Ford, chairman of the committee on credentials, announcing that the committee would be unable to report until afternoon. Thereupon Governor Bushnell of Ohio moved that the convention take a recess until 2 o'clock. The motion was carried with a roar, and it was lost. The question recurred on the admission of the Cuney delegates of Texas and it also failed to carry. The remainder of the minority report was rejected.

The question on the adoption of the minority report was then put and it was carried by a large majority. The result was received by almost universal cheering on the floor and in the gallery.

The committee on rules reported as follows:

This convention shall consist of a number of delegates from each state equal to double the number of its senators and representatives in congress, six delegates from each of the territories of Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma, six from Indian territory, four from Alaska and two from the District of Columbia.

The rules of the house of representatives of the LIVth congress shall be the rules of the convention so far as they are applicable and not inconsistent with the following rules:

"Upon all subjects before the convention the states shall be called in alphabetical order and next the territories, Alaska and the District of Columbia.

"In making the nominations for president and vice-president in no case shall the call of the roll be dispensed with. Where it appears at the close of any roll call that any candidate has received a majority of all the votes to which the convention is entitled the president of the convention shall announce the question to be, 'Shall the nomination of the candidate be made unanimous?' But if no candidate shall have received such majority the chair shall direct the vote to be taken again, which shall be repeated until some candidate shall have received a majority of the votes; and when any state has announced its vote it shall so stand, unless in case of numerical error.

"No member shall speak more than once upon the same question, nor longer than five minutes, unless by leave of the convention, except in the presentation of the names of candidates.

"A republican national committee shall be appointed, to consist of one member from each state, territory, Alaska and District of Columbia. The roll shall be called and the delegates from each state, territory, Alaska and District of Columbia shall name through its chairman the person who shall act as the member of such committee. Such committee shall issue a call for the meeting of the national convention six months, at least, before the time fixed for said meeting; and each congressional district of the United States shall elect its delegates to the national convention in the same way as the nomination for a member of congress is made in said district and in territories; the delegates to the convention shall be seated at the following persons be seated as the delegates and alternates from the state of Delaware—the delegates and alternates headed by Anthony Higgins.

"In the contest in the state of Texas for delegates-at-large from that state your committee gave attention to that case and heard the contesting delegation whom we will style as the Cuney delegation and the Grant delegation. We recommend that the delegates and alternates-at-large from Texas headed by John Grant be admitted to this convention.

"As to other matters of contest presented to your committee, notice of which was given to the national committee and heard by it, we recommend that the roll of delegates and alternates to the convention from the several states and territories and the District of Columbia, as prepared by the national committee for the temporary organization be approved and accepted as the permanent roll of delegates and alternates of this convention. A copy of the roll of delegates and alternates as adopted by this committee is herewith submitted. Respectfully presented for the committee and by its order.

J. FRANKLIN FORT.

"Chairman Committee on Credentials."

Immediately upon the conclusion of the report Chairman Thurston said:

"I recognize Mr. Hepburn of Iowa for the purpose of submitting a minority report."

The minority report involved three propositions. The propositions are these:

"1. Upon all contests on the temporary roll fixed by the national committee.

"2. Seat Addicks delegates in Delaware instead of the Higgins delegates.

"3. Seat Cuney delegates in Texas instead of the Grant delegates.

BALLOTS COME IN AS THICK AS HAIL

THE C. E. CONTEST IS GROWING WARM.

Several Candidates Are in the Field, and All Are Making an Excellent Showing—The Conditions Under Which the Canvassers Are at Work.

June 1 the poll's opened for the Christian Endeavor convention ballots. Somebody will go to Washington as The Gazette's guest next month. Who it is to be the vote will determine.

It was intended at first to have no voting except by coupons clipped from the paper. The premium allowed for new subscribers in the piano contest two years ago, was a source of complaint, so many blocks of votes being transferred from one candidate to another at the last moment. Consultation with members of the three local Christian Endeavor societies, however, resulted in a change of plan. It was urged by all the young people interviewed that allowance be made for new subscribers as well as for coupons. Their arguments decided the matter but it was determined that no voters should be transferred after being once recorded. The conditions of the vote will be as follows:

Any one, anywhere in any state is entitled to vote.
Cut out the coupon (trimming on the dotted lines). Write in the name of your candidate, and send to Ballot Editor, Gazette, Janesville, Wis.

Only one person can be voted for on one ballot.

None but members of the Janesville Christian Endeavor societies are eligible as candidates. The winner will have railroad and Pullman fare paid from Janesville to Washington and will have hotel expenses paid throughout the convention.

Votes may be sent in at any time. The polls close July 1 at 9 o'clock p. m.

The votes allowed on new subscriptions paid in advance will be:

New subscriber paid in advance one month, 100 votes.

New subscriber paid in advance two months, 200 votes.

New subscriber paid in advance six months, 300 votes.

New subscriber paid in advance one year, 2,000 votes.

New subscriber to Weekly Gazette, paid for one year, $1.50; four hundred votes.

Each new subscriber who pays in advance and casts the number of votes specified is entitled, of course, to cut coupons from the paper from day to day, and vote in the regular manner.

No person shall be allowed extra votes for stopping his paper and having it sent to another name at the same address. In every instance they must be bona fide new subscribers. No person will be allowed to stop his paper on Monday, start it again Tuesday and claim the premium.

WASHINGTON COUPON.

ONE VOTE FOR

The person receiving the most votes between June 1 and July 1, will have railroad fare to Washington and return, as well as hotel expenses in Washington during the National Christian Endeavor Convention, paid by the publishers of The Janesville Gazette.

The committee on teachers shall report the same to the board of education for final action.

The superintendent shall fill all vacancies for the board of education that shall occur by resignation or otherwise and at the next regular or special meeting of the board of education shall report such appointment for ratification.

The superintendent shall before the regular meeting in June recommend to the committee on teachers the list of teachers to be employed for the succeeding year and their respective positions.

The committee on teachers shall recommend the salaries on the list submitted and report the same to the board of education for final action.

That the by-laws relating to the committee on teacher be amended and read as follows:

THIS DAY IN HISTORY.

1788—The British evacuated Philadelphia.

1812—Congress declared war against Great Britain. President Madison sent his war message to congress June 1, and two days later the committee on foreign relations in the house of representatives reported a manifesto as a basis of the declaration of war for these reasons: The impressment of American seamen by the commanders of British ships of war, the British doctrine and system of blockade, the order in council, and, lastly, various depredations committed by British subjects on the commerce of the United States. The house adopted the measure, then the senate, and on June 18 the president signed the act declaring war. This constitutional method of declaring war is still in force.

1869—Henry Jarvis Raymond, journalist, congressman, friend and biographer of Abraham Lincoln, died in New York city; born 1820.

1884—Bishop Matthew Simpson died in Philadelphia; born in Cadiz, O., 1811.

Jones Named for Governor of Arkansas.

Little Rock, Ark., June 18.—The democratic state convention met Wednesday with a full representation.

The first business was the nomination of the state ticket, John W. Jones being nominated for governor by acclamation.

A telegram was read by the secretary purporting to come from St. Louis and containing the information that Senator Teller and his silver colleagues had walked out of the convention and declared his intention of supporting Bland for the presidency, and the convention went wild with enthusiasm for Bland. It required all the efforts of the anti-Bland people to prevent a stampede.

Maine Democrats for Gold.

Portland, Me., June 18.—The democratic state convention elected delegates-at-large to the national convention at Chicago. The platform declared in favor of a gold standard, against the free coinage of silver, in favor of a resubmission of the state prohibition amendment and of high license and local option. It highly indorses President Cleveland and denounces the protective tariff as operated by republicans, declaring in favor of legislation which shall restore the country to prosperity.

Silver Is Defeated in Florida.

Ocala, Fla., June 18.—In the democratic state convention Wednesday the free silverites were beaten on every point, though by a narrow margin.

The committee on resolutions voted 23 to 22 against free silver and in favor of referring all financial questions to the national convention for determination.

Vermont Republicans Meet.

Burlington, Vt., June 18.—The republican convention nominated Maj. Josiah Grout of Derby for governor over W. W. Stickney. The platform denounced the free coinage of silver.

Silver Leaders to Meet in Chicago.

Chicago, June 18.—There will be a meeting of the bimetallic national democratic committee in this city, Tuesday, June 30. This committee was organized about a year ago, and is made up of the leading silver democrats of the country. The following gentlemen are the members of its executive committee: Senator Isham G. Harris of Tennessee; Senator J. K. Jones of Arkansas; Senator David Turpie of Indiana; Governor W. J. Stone of Missouri; W. H. Heinrichsen of Illinois; Hon. Casey Young of Memphis, Tenn.

Would Be a Blow to England.

London, June 18.—The Globe, commenting upon the political situation in the United States, says: "We have no reason to suppose that McKinley is a less ardent protectionist than formerly and his election to the presidency would undoubtedly be a serious misfortune to British commerce."

Persons who have a coughing spell every night, on account of a tickling sensation in the throat, may overcome it at once by a dose of One Minute Cough Cure. C. D. Stevens.

THE SILVER MEN
LEAVE THE HALL

stayed its dominance over this convention. He described the depressed condition of the country, and especially of his state, and gave notice that he and others would stand by Senator Teller, who truly represented them.

After the Teller amendments were defeated by a vote of 10 yeas to 41 nays, the financial plank of the majority was taken up and the discussion was resumed, the gold men having the floor. The silver members said they felt that they were in the sad hours of a partisan dissolution, but that they would proceed as courteously and regularly as possible and not formally leave the party till they had appealed to the court of last resort—the convention. They justified their course by saying the party had left them and that they were not leaving the party. They said that Secretary Carlisle, representing the Cleveland administration, in his Nashville speech was the first to come out for the single gold standard and that the republican party had come to the democratic administration in its new departure.

The vote was then taken upon the financial plank, but not until after it had been amended by striking out the words, "now in circulation," in the last paragraph of the plank, making it read, "All our silver and paper currency must be maintained at a parity with gold, etc." Otherwise the plank was adopted as telegraphed Tuesday.

There was no division of the vote on these sections following the money plank, although differences of opinion were expressed. When it came to the vote on the adoption of the majority report of the committee as a whole there was no division, because the silver members had dropped out and were conferring together in the corridor as to their action in the convention. Chairman Foraker, on a viva voce vote, therefore declared the report on the platform as a whole adopted.

In the speeches made during the day Messrs. Cannon of Utah, Dubois of Idaho, Hartman of Montana, Cleveland of Nevada and Fowler of Wyoming were quoted as saying they would follow Senator Teller in withdrawing from the convention after the adoption of the resolutions. In the conference it was understood that the other four would do likewise, although Mr. Lemmon of California and Mr. Mott of North Carolina were reluctant about saying what they would do.

In one of his speeches Senator Teller said he wanted it understood there was nothing personal in his action against the nominee or Major McKinley's friends, but that it was a matter of principle alone with him. The other silver men in the committee made the same declaration.

HOLD A CONFERENCE.

Silver Leaders Have a Long Session at the Southern Hotel.

St. Louis, Mo., June 18.—Immediately upon adjournment of the convention Senator Teller and the Colorado delegation held a long conference in room 46 at the Southern hotel in which the situation was thoroughly discussed. Every delegate was enthusiastic in his support of the senior senator from the Centennial state and the delegation will follow Teller's ultimatum. The conference was a quiet and protracted one and when the tall form of Senator Teller came forth from the room his face bore a determined look. "I have nothing further to say than what I said before the committee on resolutions. If that resolution on the financial plank is adopted by the convention, we cannot consistently support it, and naturally the only thing to do is to walk out and refuse to take further part in the convention."

Frank C. Goudy, one of the delegates-at-large from Colorado, said that his delegation would follow the instructions of the state in regard to the financial plank. "We are to follow Senator Teller and we will do it heartily, although it means the breaking of old ties that are dear to us. The Colorado people have implicit faith in Senator Teller. Silver electors will carry that state this fall by over 75,000 majority. It will make little or no difference who heads the ticket."

There is a strong sentiment among the delegates who will bolt to meet and urge Senator Teller to accept the nomination. They want to indorse him and let the democrats take whatever action they may deem wise.

In the Missouri delegation there is considerable dissatisfaction over the proposed plank. Over four-fifths of the delegation favor a more liberal plank and will vote against a "single gold standard" clause. They will not bolt, however.

Word was received at the silver headquarters that a portion of the North Carolina delegation would leave the convention with Senator Teller, Montana, Idaho, Utah, Nebraska and a part of South Dakota. A number of delegates from other western states have been counted upon to join the Coloradoans, but they cannot be depended upon when the issue is raised.

GOLD THE WINNER
AT SAINT LOUIS

vention shall be elected in the same way as the nomination of a delegate to congress is made; the said national committee shall prescribe the mode of selecting delegates from the District of Columbia. An alternate delegate for each delegate to the national convention, to act in case of the absence of the delegate, shall be elected in the same manner and at the same time as the delegates are elected. Delegates-at-large for each state and their alternates shall be elected by state conventions in the respective states.

"The republican national committee is authorized and empowered to select an executive committee, to consist of nine members, who may or may not be members of the national committee.

The report of the committee was adopted by unanimous vote.

On motion of Mr. Grosvenor of Ohio the convention adjourned until 10 this morning.

COUNT HOBART SURE.

Thought to Be the Winner of the Vice-Presidential Nomination.

St. Louis, Mo., June 18.—Garrett A. Hobart of New Jersey will be nominated for vice-president if the McKinley influence can control the convention. Mr. Hanna would not say for whom he would vote for vice-president. It was reported, however, that he would cast his vote for Hobart. There was a straw ballot shown around at McKinley headquarters on vice-president as follows: Hobart, 355; Morton, 320; Evans, 200; the rest being divided between Bulkeley of Connecticut and Brown of Rhode Island. It was claimed that the Evans vote would go to Hobart in the event of New York attempting a stampede for Morton and that the Hobart vote would go to Evans in the event of Morton's exceeding that of Hobart.

A canvas of some of the headquarters where delegates were assembled showed that the Morton movement lacked the strength claimed for it. The Platt people still insist that Morton will be nominated for vice-president by a large majority. Some of the anti-Platt men of New York telegraphed Mr. Morton for a final and decisive statement of his position. Up to a late hour he had not answered, and this fact leads them to believe that possibly Mr. Morton has yielded to the demands of Platt and will permit the use of his name in order to help the New York machine.

It is authoritatively said that the McKinley machine cannot and will not indorse Morton. It is still believed that the Hanna influence will be exerted for Hobart of New Jersey. A great many delegates are asking one another: "Have you heard Thurston mentioned for second place?" Southern men still hold out for H. Clay Evans.

The anti-Platt men of New York have issued their circular asking all friends of McKinley to protest against the attempt to drag the state fight into the national canvass. The McKinley league of New York is against Morton. The Thurston talk was also to be heard in the various headquarters the idea being that Thurston would gain great advantage from his presence in the convention. It is argued also that Thurston would be a great factor in strengthening the ticket, as his candidacy would solidify the contending elements east and west. While the Thurston talk was rather vague it is evidently the belief of many delegates that in case the Morton and Reed booms are put out of the way he would be a very likely candidate.

PARADE THE STREET IN SPITE OF LAW

SALVATION ARMY WILL "DO ITS DUTY."

Captain Allen Says That the Soldiers Will Go to Jail if It Is Necessary, But Parade They Will, Regardless of the City Ordinances Against the Same.

A detachment of the salvation army, consisting of eleven women and three men arrived in the city today, and in spite of the city ordinance against their parading the street, they will march on Milwaukee and Main streets commencing with tomorrow evening.

Captain J. Allen, who has command of the detachment, says that prior to their coming to this city, he had heard that there was a city ordinance in force which prohibited their parade on business streets, so he wrote a long letter to Mayor Baines. The answer was anything but satisfactory to the army, so ordinance or no ordinance, they will parade the streets, for the good of mankind.

"If we are all thrown in jail it will make but little difference to us," remarked Captain Allen "for we know very well that the city of Janesville can frame no ordinance that will prohibit our parading the streets, as long as we behave ourselves. More than that, if we are arrested officers at the army headquarters in Chicago will take up the case, and the army will win."

Capt. Allen and his band of followers pitched their tents in the rear of the Y. M. C. A. building today and are here for two weeks.

ACCIDENT IS FATAL TO THERON CUTTER

WELL KNOWN FAIRFIELD MAN DEAD.

Bank Caved in on Him While He Was Working in a Gravel Pit, and His Leg Was Broken—He Soon Became Unconscious, and Died Last Night.

Fairfield, Wis., June 18.—[Special.]—Theron Cutter, of this village, was fatally injured on Monday and died at 5 o'clock last night.

Mr. Cutter was working in a sand pit, getting material to repair the road when the bank caved in on him. He was partially buried and his leg was broken. Fellow workmen dug him out and took him to the home of his father, James Cutter, of Fairfield, and a physician sent for. The broken bone was set and Mr. Cutter was apparently doing well.

Yesterday afternoon, however, lock-jaw set in, and Cutter became unconscious. The watchers at his bedside realized that something was wrong, and tried to rouse him, but could not. He remained unconscious until 5 o'clock, when the end came.

Mr. Cutter was about thirty years of age, and was married. The accident occurred near the village of Fairfield.

It Was Not Lockjaw

Dr. James Gibson was called to the bedside of Mr. Cutter yesterday afternoon. He says that death was caused by fat embolism.

"The case is an extraordinary one and is seldom seen," remarked Dr. Gibson. "Such cases are very rare, but are occasionally reported. Lock-jaw was not the cause of death."

AN OUTLINE.

The girl I loved was married yesterday. I read no more, my eyes are blurred with tears. One line of print can bring back all the years I deemed as dead and make December May. For we were young and dreams were passing sweet.

And earth seemed all to smile with tenderness upon our love, and we were happy—yes. A thousand ways to life seemed complete. This love I learned to look upon as dead. And yet tonight I feel a dull, strange pain. An ache here in the throat I cannot sway. I see again that quaint trick of her head. The swelling of her throat—but dreams are vain—

The girl I loved was married yesterday.—John Northern Hilliard in Chicago Record.

WAITING FOR A FARM

Jim Randall and Steve Hall sat in the village inn of the latter one evening after it was closed to outsiders, smoking their pipes of peace and friendship, as was their wont.

It was a plain country inn, where you could buy almost anything, but it also showed signs of modern improvements, since the increase of population and the times demanded it.

Steve Hall had inherited it from his father, and, having come into possession a year before, married the girl he loved and settled down, which happy course of action he was constantly urging upon his old friend, Jim Randall.

"If you love Em well enough to have her, why don't you marry at once, instead of spending your best years in courting and waiting?" asked Steve of his friend.

"Oh, I can't afford it!" answered Jim, stooping to knock the ashes from his pipe. "Em's a good girl and has promised to have me; but I told her she, or rather we, must wait until I could see my way clear to support a family."

"What did she say to that?" inquired Steve, with a curious expression on his face.

"She said of course we couldn't expect to marry at once—you see, that was five years ago—and she was willing to wait, but didn't want me to think she cared for money. To be with me poor would be happiness enough for her, and so on. You know how girls always talk under these circumstances."

"Yes, and I know Emma Willis always means what she says. Jim, if you had married her four years ago, you would have been a rich man now."

"A rich man! How?"

"Well, to tell the truth, I see a good many signs of neglect about your farm which I know would never exist where Emma Willis lived."

Jim colored at this intimation of his indolence, and answered stiffly:

"Well, when it's all my own, I'll take more pains with the old place, and marry Em in the bargain."

"Don't wait for that, old boy. Do both right away, and my word for it, you'll never be sorry."

These words rang in Jim Randall's ears as he walked back in the twilight to the only home he had known since he was a boy.

Here he had lived with his grandfather and the old housekeeper ever since first going to school, then assisting in the care of the farm until the whole charge gradually fell upon him. But he never took much interest in it—it was too much like working for nothing.

"Wait until it is my own," he would say to himself; "then you'll see something worth looking at." For Jim was his grandfather's expected heir, and some day, not far off perhaps, these acres would be in his possession. Then he would bring his wife here and fix up the old place and show folks what he could do. But now he might as well take the world easy and not work himself to death for his board and clothes.

Thus he had always reasoned, until tonight he began to wonder whether he hadn't done wrong.

"Wife," said Steve Hall that night, "I do believe Jim will live on and on in the old place until the old man dies, before he will better himself. He has fallen in this careless, indolent way of letting things go, until it wouldn't surprise me to hear that Em herself slipped away from him."

"It is a shame," rejoined Mrs. Hall warmly, "to let such a sweet, pretty girl as Emma Willis waste the best years of her life waiting for such a man. I declare I'd marry somebody else just in spite!"

"No, you wouldn't, my dear. But it is too true that Jim doesn't seem to know what he's waiting for. I can't see that his prospects improve at all."

"They may before long, for old Mr. Randall has seemed unusually feeble lately."

Even as he spoke, Jim Randall was trying to rouse the old man from sleep in the big chair, where he was surprised to find his grandfather at this late hour. But in vain. No earthly power could arouse the old farmer from the sleep that had come upon him alone and unexpectedly. So the news later spread throughout the town, and a few days later they laid him beside the companion of his youth, who had gone years before.

Then Jim Randall felt desolate enough, and his only comfort was in the thought that the farm was now his, and he could do as he pleased.

The relatives assembled after the funeral to hear the will read, which seemed a mere matter of form to most of them, as Jim's expectations were shared by all.

After several small bequests the lawyer read the astounding passage:

"In consequence of the apparent dislike of my grandson, James Randall, to the pursuit of agriculture, I hereby give and bequeath my farm, consisting of 25 acres, with the house and outbuildings thereon, to my brother, William Randall, and to my grandson, James Randall, the sum of £1,000, to be paid one month after my decease."

Everybody in the room sat stupefied until the lawyer commenced rolling up the parchment which had brought such confusion in the camp. Then a general movement took place, and the less fortunate legatees took their leave.

William Randall came up to James, and taking him by the hand said:

"This was entirely unexpected and undesired by me. I supposed and had no other wish than that you would be the fortunate one."

This was said in a broken voice, with tears standing in the speaker's eyes, for he was a plain, hardworking farmer, and entirely overcome by his good fortune.

James grasped his hand, and said hoarsely:

"You are welcome to it, Uncle William. There is no one else I would rather have it go to. I'll see you tomorrow," turning hastily away.

When he was left alone, he covered his face with his hands and groaned. Where were his prospects now? What had become of all his fine plans for improvement? When would Emma ever become his wife?

These and other things connected with the mortification of having it known that his expectations had been disappointed caused him to feel miserable. The £1,000, which was surely his, sank into paltry insignificance beside the loss of a farm worth £400 an acre—and all lost through his own laziness. He could not blame his grandfather, for he knew he deserved the lesson.

There he sat miserably thinking until twilight had closed in, and he was summoned to the evening meal; but he could not eat, and resumed his place by the fire, wishing and not wishing he might see Emma Willis.

So, when her face appeared behind that of Mr. and Mrs. Hall, he sprang to meet her with more joy than he had felt for years. They had come to offer their sympathy and advice to Jim, who was in an excellent frame of mind to receive it.

With his hand clasping Emma's, he sat and listened to his faithful friend Steve, who was suggesting some useful hints.

"It ain't so much the loss of the place, Jim," said Steve, "as it is upsetting all your plans. It would take a deal of money to get things all right again, and here you've got £1,000 in cash to do what you've a mind to with. 'A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush,' you know, and as you have all your life been waiting for something to turn up, suppose you turn up yourself and show what kind of stuff there is in you."

"I will, Steve, I will!" Jim exclaimed, jumping up. "I see now what a selfish, aimless life I have led, waiting—I am ashamed to acknowledge—for another man to die that I might enjoy the fruit of his toil. From this hour I am resolved to live to some purpose, and, with Emma to help me, know I shall be a happier man."

Although agriculture was distasteful to him, he resolved to conquer his dislike and make amends for the past. So he bought a small place and worked hard to bring it to a high state of cultivation.

He was so successful that his fame as a farmer spread abroad, and many applications for advice and consultation did he receive. The old farmers said there was no use competing with him at their county exhibitions, for he regularly bore off the highest prizes. And his wife, now a rosy, cheerful matron, made the best butter and cheese in the county.

His farm was growing too small for his extended operations, and he was negotiating for the purchase of more land, when his uncle William was killed by a fall from a wagon and on reading the will he found, to his surprise and gratification, that the old farm had been willed back to him, improved 100 per cent.

He took possession with an overflowing heart, now fully appreciating and enjoying the occupation which had taught him that the greatest happiness of life is in the full employment of our talents, whatever they may be, aided in his case by the great power of love.—London Spare Moments.

Milk Jars.

Milk jars, or bottles, now so commonly used, were introduced about 15 years ago. A gentleman farmer of Litchfield, Conn., a man of wealth, who owned blooded cows, finding with the increase of his stock his milk supply growing beyond his own needs, decided to sell the surplus. He desired to put up this milk in some distinctive form, and he came to New York to the headquarters here of a glass works and asked to have got up for him some kind of a glass package that would be suitable for the purpose and convenient for shipping. A jar was produced that was substantially similar in form to the one now in use. The first jars were provided with glass stoppers. These were found to break too easily, and a metal stopper was soon substituted.

This form of package for milk at once became popular. The owner of the farm for which the milk jar was first made turned his farm over to a stock company, which increased its production greatly. It still remains a large establishment and one whose dairy products are well known.

Many other milk producers adopted the milk jar, and its general use extended rapidly. Probably at least 75 per cent of the milk for family use is delivered now in bottles. There are millions of bottles in constant use, and the number produced annually to make good the breakage and to supply the increasing demand is about 20,000 gross.—New York Sun.

Plausible, but Improbable.

A man in Oklahoma heard a noise at his office door, and thinking that it was some one peeping through the keyhole he injected a little pepper sauce into it. When he went home, his wife told him she had been cutting wood and a chip flew up in hereye.—Washington Times.

HOW ABOUT THIS, MR. BUNNER?

An Englishman Says that He Designed "The Best American Poster."

"But," asked the interviewer of Mr. A. Morrow, the English poster designer, who had been discoursing enthusiastically on the developments of his art, "do you think that we in England can compete with the Americans in this respect?" says the Pall Mall Gazette.

"If you really insist upon an opinion," said Mr. Morrow, "I could give you one. But I would much rather not."

"But why?"

"Well, I have a sort of personal association with the American poster which makes it rather difficult for me to preserve a proper impartiality."

"How is that?"

"Well, a month or two ago an American magazine published a finely illustrated article on the American poster. It pointed out how highly the art of the poster has developed in America; it gave a number of examples of American poster work, new and old, and it picked out from among them one which it said was an exquisitely clever and amusing design, that would take the blue ribbon, judged by the points of artistic poster-making."

"Indeed! Which was it?"

"It was the poster for the play of 'The New Women,' when that piece was put on at Palmer's theater, New York. It was drawn, the article said, by Mr. Robert Joste."

"Well! Where does the personal interest come in that prevents your expressing an opinion? Did you write the article?"

"No, but I designed the poster."

"I thought you said it was drawn by Mr. Robert Joste?"

"The magazine said so. I only know that it was my design, my drawing, and my poster. I made the design when Mr. Comyns Carr produced 'The New Woman' at the Comedy theater in London. The poster was printed in England and exhibited on the boards throughout the run of the play in London and the provinces. So you see I am rather interested to hear that it was drawn by Robert Joste, and as it takes the blue ribbon of American poster-making me feel some diffidence in answering the question you put to me."

The Anatomy of Speed Skating.

The typical speed skater has a short body, capacious, round chest, with well developed back; his thighs are strong and very long, as are also his legs. His feet are large and flat. His weak points are his calves, due to the long, flat skate to which his flattened foot is so closely bound.

The large muscles of his chest are not exercised and his arms, held lying idly along his back, are unused, except in an occasional spurt, when they are brought down and swung straight from the shoulder. They say that they catch less wind held that way and that the position is restful to the tense extensors of the back. This is, no doubt, true, but the result is disastrous to symmetrical development.

This type of figure is seen at its best in such skaters as the Donahues, McCormick, the old-time professional, who still skates a fast race, although now 40 years of age, and in Wilson Breen, a professional, who has been a winner of much gold and glory by means of his long legs and powerful thighs.

The conclusion that speed skating alone is not a good exercise to develop a well-built, symmetrical man will be patent to anyone who reviews the facts. If indulged in it should be, as done by McCulloch, in conjunction with other forms of athletics which bring into action the muscles of the arm, calf, shoulders and chest.—Popular Science Monthly.

Hints for the '96 Diary.

Let us resolve, if we are married to try to be as polite to our husbands as we are to other people.

If we are housekeepers, to spend our money on good food instead of embroidered centers for the table.

If we are engaged, that we won't tell Jack how much finer Ethel de Styles' diamond ring is than his.

If a man takes us to the theater, that we won't look in the restaurant windows as we go home.

If we are working women, that we will eat roast beef for lunch instead of pie.

If we are women, that we won't criticize other women.

If we are shop girls, that we will pay a little attention to the woman who doesn't buy high-priced goods.

If we belong to progressive euchre clubs, that we will play a fair game.

If we belong to church societies, that we won't go to them to gossip.

Let us also resolve to make the new year an improvement on the old, and if from old we have brought forward an unsettled account of anger or hatred or malice, let us wipe off the score and take a fresh start.

ADIRONDACK WOLVES.

Not Extinct, They May Again Drive Away and Kill Deer.

The killing of a giant gray wolf at Gull Lake by George Muir last June excited considerable wonder, but since then two more have been killed, one not far from Brandreth Lake, and the other in Saranac woods, says the New York World. Long ago these fierce animals had been classified among the extinct beasts of New York State. The rumors or camp-fire gossip about large animals seen by the backwoodsmen and thought to be wolves were regarded as mere idle tales. The creatures seen were set down as stray deer hounds, and no one for a moment believed a living wolf was surviving in the now cut-up and cleared north woods. Besides the wolves actually killed, there are reports of others seen by reliable men which tend to show an increase in numbers. It is far from improbable under the present conditions that, within the lives of men now middle-aged, the wolves will have returned to their old haunts in considerable numbers. Unquestionably the reason why these hungry chaps forsook the Adirondacks was a lack of food. Deer, the principal article of diet, had been nearly exterminated. The wolves themselves, even unassisted by hunters, soon depopulate a forest by their gluttonous destruction of weaker animals. It has been so in New Hampshire and Vermont in early times, and in Maine within the memory of living men. Here in our state the extermination progressed more rapidly, for human hands assisted. In the wider, untracked parts of the forest the deer were devoured by wolves, and the survivors of herds were driven out into the lumber camps and clearings, where the hunters mercilessly slew the last ones in sight. This went on until just prior to the enactment of improved game laws and the establishment of vast preserves when there were very few deer left in the woods. It was then that the gray wolves, seeing prospects of starvation ahead, took up their trail for the north. Stories are yet told of droves of wolves seen by settlers moving toward the Canadas, where undoubtedly they again settled down.

Now things are different. Clubs, individuals, the state itself, have lent earnest hands to the protection of game, and deer are now more plenty than they have been for twenty years past. But the recent killing of wolves shows that the big gray rascals are becoming aware of better times and are returning.

Mrs. Olney's Clever Notion.

Mrs. Olney, wife of the secretary of state, recently put her yankee wits to work and evolved an invention which has been a revelation to the postoffice department. That institution never understood the full value of the special delivery stamp until its powers were developed by down-east wit. Mrs. Olney's discovery may prove of value to other people who find themselves face to face with the situation which roused that lady's shrewdness. She had a daughter living abroad. Letters from her were always received just too late to be answered by return steamer of the same date. After puzzling over it some time Mrs. Olney, who was living in Boston at the time, queried the post-office authorities as to whether a special delivery stamp placed on a letter mailed in a foreign country would be delivered any quicker for it on this side. The answer finally came that unless the special stamp was canceled before it landed here it ought to be delivered as any other letter similarly stamped. Accordingly one of the United States special delivery stamps was placed in the next letter mailed in Germany to Mrs. Olney. Under it in German was the direction, "This stamp is not to be canceled in Germany." The scheme worked perfectly. The letter arrived ahead of time of previous ones and answer was sent back by steamer sailing the same day. Many letters have since been sent in the same manner and the special stamp always does its work as desired. It is needless, of course, to state that when a letter goes from this side Mrs. Olney's plan doesn't work.

Ice Bicycles.

From the suggestion thrown out by a boy who lashed an ordinary skate to the front wheel of his safety and was enabled to make good time over the surface of a frozen lake two enterprising young men in Chicago have invented and patented an ice bicycle and formed a company for its manufacture. With the first perfected model one of the inventors made a mile in one minute and twenty seconds and this can be improved upon, the skill of the rider being the only limit to the possibilities in the line of records. The change from the normal bicycle to the ice machine can be made in five minutes. The rear tire is deflated and the toothed band of steel slipped over it. The tire is then inflated until the tension is sufficient to hold the band in place. The blade is hollow ground, rendering lateral slipping impossible. The weight of the machine remains unaltered. The device is so cheap that cycling on ice is pretty sure to become popular.—Exchange.

Died for Others.

It is notable as illustrating the heroism of today that the three men burned to death in the terrible fire at the house of James R. Armiger in Baltimore, all lost their lives while attempting to save others. Mr. Armiger himself was overcome by the smoke and flames after dashing up-stairs to arouse the other inmates of the house. His son-in-law, W. B. Riley, was found dead with his two children clasped in his arms, and Horace Manuel, a guest, lay with a child in his arms.

Tales of Hoary Old Egypt.

Many years before recorded history begins the old Egyptians had developed a religion, an architecture and a mode of life of which imperishable traces are found to-day. Before Herodotus wrote or Homer sung, before the sacred songs of Hindostan were dreamed of, before the first books of the bible were put into writing, the Egyptian hieroglyphics recorded on the walls of their temples and tombs or on the scrolls of their papyrus the mysteries of their religion, the doings of their kings or the stories of their chief reciters.

Maspero, the great French Egyptologist, first gave these stories to the modern world, but to the skill and scholarship of Flinders Petrie the world owes the first useful and entertaining form in which the earliest romances of the childhood of the world appear in English.

There are many of these stories. In them appear the prototypes of characters in fiction that have been used by writers in all ages and all languages. In one story told by King Khufu's reciter at command of that monarch, who even in his early days was aware of the hollow splendor and tedious ceremonials of his court, appears the original of "Sinbad."—New York World.

Hard Petroleum for Fuel.

A process for converting petroleum into a hard mass, and thus render it suitable for employment for fuel on board large ocean going craft has been brought forward by M. D'Humy, a French naval engineer. The published statements relating to the invention show, among other things, that the prepared material is affected neither by heat nor cold, and is absolutely smokeless and odorless. The cakes, when set on fire, burn only on the surface, and give an intense heat; they require very little draft, and make not more than from 2 to 3 per cent of ashes; they can be made in any size or shape, and can be stored away anywhere without danger, as they cannot evaporate or cause an explosion. Further representations show that a man-of-war having 1,000 tons of this solidified oil on board could sail around the world or remain at sea for successive months. One ton of this material is estimated as being the same of thirty tons of coal, and the amount of cost is calculated in a French scientific journal as not more than $10 per ton, and it is considered, therefore, by the promoters of this process that in the manufacture of steel 500 pounds of the solidified petroleum, costing but $2, would melt a ton of metal.

Wanted—A Fool Killer.

The astute police of Hoboken, N. J., saw Louis Weininger hug his wife in the dining room of his coffee house, and arrested Louis and his wife, mother and sister, and kept them in a station house all night. They continued to pester Louis, and three weeks elapsed before he got a chance before a jury and was acquitted. The plea of the police was that he had advertised for girl waiters, and that he was keeping a disorderly house. What they need in Hoboken is the Fool Killer at the head of the police for a day or two, with unrestricted powers.

There are more muscles in the tail of a rat than in a human hand.

Hard Times Suggestion.

The Garden City Herald wants the motto on the silver dollar changed from "In God we trust" to "God be with you till we meet again."

Consistency.

"Wait a minute, father."

The boy, for it was he, struggled up from his father's knee, while the piece of leather tug hung motionless in the paternal hand.

"I think I heard you say you never changed your mind?" the youth began.

"Never!" said the head of the family, spitting into his hand and grasping the tug more firmly.

"And yet, father," pursued the boy, winking slyly at the jury, "I am very sure that when you were a boy you did not favor corporal punishment."

Which so confounded the old man that ere he had regained his second wind the boy was huddled down upon the horizon.—N. Y. Recorder.

A Suggestive Addition.

A friend of Bishop W.—lost a dearly-beloved wife, and, in his sorrow, caused these words to be inscribed on her tombstone: "The light of mine eyes has gone out." The bereaved married within a year. Shortly afterwards the bishop was walking through the graveyard with another gentleman. When they arrived at the tomb, the latter asked the bishop what he would say to the present state of affairs, in view of the words on the tombstone.

"I think," said the bishop, "the words 'but I have struck another match' should be added."—Tit-Bits.

The Alternative.

"Can't you make the front entrance wider?" asked one of the trustees, inspecting the plan of the proposed new church a little closer.

"Not unless you build on a wider lot," answered the architect, decidedly. "If the ladies are afraid of musing their sleeves in a six-foot doorway they will have to go through edgewise."—Chicago Tribune.

Getting There by Degrees.

Edwina—How is Mr. Blushman getting along? Has he proposed yet?

Edith—No; but he is improving. The first night he called he held the album in his hands all evening; the second night he had my pug dog in his arms; last night he held Willie on his lap for an hour. I have hopes.—Yonkers Statesman.

A Tired Man.

"I think old Judge Pennybunker is one of the laziest men I ever saw," remarked Gilhooly to Hostetter McGinnis.

"Is he so lazy?"

"Lazy! Lazy is no name for it. He is so confounded lazy that it tires him to keep up with the earth when it turns on its axis."—Texas Sifter.

Nowadays when women are trying to do everything it is not strange that many things are over-done. It is not strange that there are all kinds of physical and mental disturbances. If the woman who is a doctor, or a lawyer, or a journalist, or in business would not try to be a society woman too it might be different; but the woman who knows when she has done a day's work has yet to be born. Usually a woman's way is to keep doing until she drops.

Working in this way has manifold evils. The most common trouble resulting from over-exertion, either mentally or physically, is constipation of the bowels, with all its attendant horrors.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the most effectual remedy in the market. They work upon the system easily, naturally. There is no unpleasant nausea after taking them. No gripping—no pain—no discomfort. They are composed of materials that go through the system gradually, collecting all impurities and, like the good little servants that they are, disposing of them effectually. Sold by druggists.

HOUSES ARE LUCKY.

Theatrical People Believe the Equine a Mascot.

There is an old theatrical superstition that horses are very lucky to have in a play, and theatrical superstitions, like all others, die hard, says the Boston Traveler. There are one or two leading London managers, who, if they were to reveal their inmost thoughts, believe in this superstition and to this very day. "Cut the cackle and come to the 'osses," was the favorite maxim of the celebrated Ducrow and he had good cause to believe in "osses," for they made him one of the most prominent men of his time. Sir Augustus Harris is a firm believer in the horse theory, for there has not been a recent successful Drury Lane drama in which a horse has not appeared, while a great many of them have owed their success in a great measure to the introduction of the equine. In the present drama running at Drury Lane is represented for the first time in the history of the stage a polo match with trained ponies, that they have often played in matches on the actual ground at Hurlingham, in the mimic representation of which, on the stage, they appear every night. Sir Augustus Harris tells a good story of one of these ponies, a beautiful little gray, formerly the property of Sir George Scott. During one of the rehearsals the ponies were brought down near the footlights that they might get accustomed to the glare and so not get frightened during the performance at night. It so happened that one of the dummy horses that are used in the battle scene—"The Last Stand"—was lying on the stage. The little gray pony caught sight of it and struggled until he got over to where it lay. He sniffed and sniffed at it for some minutes and seemed to be very much puzzled; finally, to the great amusement of everybody on the stage, he made a vicious bite at the dummy's ear, which, not being very firmly attached, came off. The pony stood still for a moment with a strange, frightened look in his eyes, and then took to his heels up the stage. For weeks afterward it was impossible to get the pony to come down near the footlights. The largest theatrical stables in the world are those kept by a horseman near Drury Lane theater. Here one often sees more than 100 horses that are being used for various theatrical purposes. From these stables horses are sent all over England with touring companies. Often there will be as many as 200 horses traveling in various parts of the country from this establishment alone.

A Nice Sort of Pa.

There is a saloonkeeper in Tennessee who is something of a humorist. His entire family was in court the other day and one of his daughters was a witness against her father. She told this mildly interesting story: "Pa was sitting in his saloon feeling lonely. He went to the barn and put a halter on his horse, brought him into the house, saying he wanted the animal to eat supper with him. Pa made me set a plate for the horse. Then he took hold of the horse's front legs and lifted them up on the table. We all sat down to supper and the horse began to eat. Pa picked up a mug of beer and began to laugh and throw both hands in the air. The mug hit the horse on the nose. The beast pulled his feet down, dragging the tablecloth and upsetting the table. The horse backed up and set squarely on a red-hot stove. This burned its tail so the animal kicked the stove over and ran out of the house. I screamed and pa threw a lamp at me. The house came near catching fire and a policeman came in. Pa has been arrested 108 times."—Atlanta Constitution.

A Reign of Terror.

There is horror too prolific in the jargon scientific which disturbs the mood pacific

Of the ordinary man;

In these awful tales that thrill us of a bugaboo bacillus that is hiding near to kill us

If by any chance it can.

Not a single chance it misses; it is lurking in our blisses; it is even in the kisses

That delight a leap year dream; In the air are microbes floating; in the water they are gloating, fiendish vigilance devoting

To their weird, malicious scheme.

Oh, ye philosophic sages, we were happy all these ages while these animals outrageous Unsuspected flourished here; And although, just for the present, we withstand their siege incessant, we run other risks unpleasant.

For we're almost dead with fear. —Washington Star.

The Human.

Humanity is naturally so material, so limited in its view that only God in the flesh would adequately bring man and the all just Father into oneness. The incarnation is an inextricable mystery, but not more so than the fundamental principles of our life. It requires greater faith or degree of credulity to account for Christ as a mere man than as the God man.—Rev. O. F. Barthelow.

Population of Wisconsin.

Wisconsin began the century with a population of 115 persons, had in 1850 a population of 305,301 and now finds, by the state census just completed, that her inhabitants number 1,937,915. Seventy-two per cent of them were born in the United States.

Now is the time to get screens in position to keep the flies out. They are cheap at Lowell's.

Scarcity of money, stories of hard times, rumors of harder times, makes us think that perhaps there are people who can't afford to buy footwear---at least they can't get the kind that cost them $3.50, $4.00 and $5.00. We want to assure all these people that it is not necessary to make such expenditures.
